

1 approximately January 25, 2006. At all times material herein, Profits4investingtoo.com
2 was an unincorporated business operated by Wheatley, Simmons and Garcia from their 3 homes. Wheatley and Simmons, who are husband and wife, share a last known 4 address of 636 S. 41st Place in Springfield, Oregon. Garcia's last known address is 5 11716 NE 49th Street #F4 in Vancouver, Washington.

6 2. At all times material herein, Profits4investing.com was not licensed as a broker-
7 dealer by the Oregon Division of Finance and Corporate Securities and was not 8 authorized to sell securities in the State of Oregon.

9 3. At all times material herein, Wheatley, Simmons and Garcia were not licensed as 10 broker-dealer salespersons by the Oregon Division of Finance and Corporate Securities
11 and were not authorized to sell securities in the State of Oregon.

12 4. Wheatley, along with Simmons, developed the investment scheme offered on the 13 website. The website claimed the investment scheme was a long-term, high-yield 14 private loan program "backed up by investing in various funds and activities." The 15 website claimed "profits from these investments are used to enhance our program and 16 increase its stability for the long term." Simmons and Wheatley used the e-mail address 17 "webmaster@profits4investingtoo.com," which was provided to investors for use in 18 contacting Profits4investingtoo.com.

19 5. The website offered several programs in which individuals could invest in the 20 investment scheme. Attachment A, hereby incorporated by reference, provides a 21 depiction of the programs the website offered.

22 6. The website instructed people who wished to invest in the investment scheme to 23 transfer their investment funds via one of two Internet money processors, Stormpay and 24 E-gold. The Stormpay account identified by the website belonged to Garcia.

25 7. Garcia opened his Stormpay account in December 2003 and conducted 61
26 transactions between December 16, 2003 and November 22, 2005, which was prior to

1 the operation of the website. After the website became operational on December 3, 2 2005, use of Garcia's Stormpay account skyrocketed to 27,330 transactions conducted 3 between December 13, 2005 and March 8, 2006. These transactions included the 4 receipt of consumers' investment funds, the payment of funds to investors, and charge-
5 backs resulting from customer complaints. Stormpay reported that as of March 17,
6 2006 there had been 1,314 complaints filed with Stormpay against Garcia's Stormpay
7 account as a result of Garcia's receipt of money for the investment scheme and the 8 failure to pay investors in the investment scheme.

9 8. Garcia directed Stormpay to wire funds from his Stormpay account to his 10 checking account at IQ Credit Union in Vancouver, Washington. Garcia would then wire
11 a portion of those funds to Wheatley's checking account at Bank of America. Garcia 12 would keep the remaining funds.

13 9. Between December 23, 2005 and January 23, 2006, Stormpay wired 14 approximately $664,997 into Garcia's IQ Credit Union checking account. Garcia then 15 wired $435,675 to Wheatley's checking account at Bank of America.

16 10. In November 2005, Wheatley's Bank of America checking account had a 17 balance of $0.81 and his saving account was overdrawn by $5.99 but by March 13,
18 2006, Wheatley's checking account had a balance of $23,596.36 and his savings 19 account had a balance of $100,348.63. Garcia's checking account balance was 20 $16,446.98 and his savings account balance was $503.74.

21 11. A review of Garcia and Wheatley's bank records indicates that the investment
22 funds received via Stormpay were not spent on an investment that might produce 23 income for the investors but instead were used to purchase personal and real property
24 including Wheatley and Simmons' home in Springfield, Oregon, a 2005 Mercedes Benz
25 C230, a 2004 Hummer, jewelry, furniture, appliances and electronic equipment.

26 12. On December 29, 2005, Ellen Langfitt of Jacksonville, North Carolina invested

1 $40 with profits4investingtoo.com in a ten-day plan that promised a 400% return. On 2 December 31, 2005, she invested $70 in a ten-day plan that promised a 400% return.
3 On January 9, 2006, her account was credited $160, which ostensibly included her 4 initial $40 investment plus $120 interest. That same day, Ellen Langfitt invested $50 of 5 that money in a four-day plan that promised around 35% interest and another $50 of 6 that money into a ten-day plan that promised a 400% return. She did not receive any 7 return on her December 31, 2005 or January 9, 2006 investments. She lost a net of 8 $50 to the investment scheme.

9 13. On January 9, 2006, Nathan Langfitt, also of Jacksonville, North Carolina, 10 invested $200 with profits4investingtoo.com in a ten-day plan that promised a 400%
11 return. On January 10, 2006, he invested $200 in a ten-day plan that promised a 400%
12 return and $250 in a four-day plan that promised a 35% return. On February 1, 2006, 13 his account was credited $800 for his January 10, 2006 ten-day investment. Before he 14 could withdraw the $800, it was charged back from his Stormpay account to 15 profits4investingtoo.com. He did not receive any return of principal or profit for his 16 January 10, 2006 investments. He lost a net of $650 to the investment scheme.

17 14. On January 10, 2006, Lillie Coley of New Jersey invested $4,000 with 18 profits4investingtoo.com in a four-day plan that promised a 35% return, $5,500 in a 19 seven-day plan that promised a 220% return, and $500 in a fifteen-day plan that 20 promised a 350% return. She invested the money expecting to make the stated returns.
21 She understood that her money would be pooled with other investors' funds to invest in 22 foreign exchange, day trading or other similar profit-making enterprises to produce the 23 promised returns. She did not agree that any of her funds could be used for personal 24 use by operators of the website. She was not required to do anything more than 25 provide her investment funds to obtain the stated returns, she had no management in 26 the investment scheme, and required others to manage the investment funds to obtain

1 her return. When she did not receive the promised returns, she contacted website
2 administrator who reported to her that the accounts were hacked but that everyone
3 would be paid. On February 1, 2006, profits4intestingtoo.com deposited $3,672 to Ms.
4 Coley's Stormpay account and she was able to withdraw those funds but lost $6,328 of 5 her investment.
