Lisa –

One more bit of feedback/input, this time on behalf of both OAHU and ZoomCare:

We largely concur with the evident consensus on the last RAC call that patient attribution should be at the clinic level. It will be important, however, for rules language to refer to a “clinic or clinic system.” The effect would align with strong consumer preference in primary care to not be tied to care at a specific clinic address. Electronic health records and team-based care enable “any door” care within clinic systems like ZoomCare.

I would observe that this also true in the Medicaid space, in which FQHC clinic systems that are not part of hospital systems have become common.

You’re welcome and we will get you added. Since I just received your comments today I will add them to the 8/8 RAC information once our web team can get all the materials posted on the RAC website. During the public comment period tomorrow, feel free to verbally share your comments with the RAC and interested parties.

Thanks!
